Instructions: Read the following article highlighting or underlining information that helps explain what the author, David Johnson, means by the “common good”. Then, write your own definition of the “common good” based on the text you highlighted. Next, choose three quotes from the article that support the definition you wrote. Write your responses in the chart following the article. Finally, answer the reflection question at the end of the chart. Make sure you write out the quotes word for word, include quotation marks, and cite line numbers.
